SAPOLIO
Some lives are like Horse shoes the more worn the brighter! Busy wives who use SAPOLIO never seem to grow old. Try a cake...
A complete wreck of domestic happiness has often resulted from badly washed dishes, from an unclean kitchen, or from trifles which seemed light as air. But by these things a man often judges of his wife's devotion to her family, and charges her with general neglect when he finds her careless in these particulars. Many a home owes a large part of its thrifty neatness and its consequent happiness to SAPOLIO.
Grocers often substitute cheaper goods for SAPOLIO, to make a better profit. Send back such articles, and insist on having just what you ordered.

Marshall Jackson made a raid on Wah Pop's laundry Sunday night, and captured a crowd of crap shooters, whose fines Monday morning netted the city $75. Wah got the heaviest dose as he was fined on two counts, one for allowing gambling and the other for taking a hand himself.

E. B. Hurt obtained a judgment in T. Newbold's court Monday, against Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hyde on a note for $5. The note was signed by Mrs. Hyde alone, and Mr. Bradley, her attorney, says that she was only asked to sign a recommendation for a book, and to get rid of the agent did so, but in due time the "recommendation" turned up in the hands of an assignee, a plain note of hand. Her husband, Mr. Hyde, says she never received any book, nor ever supposed she was entitled to any until she was sued on the note. If the facts are as stated, this looks to us like a grab game that ought to be investigated. Mr. Hurt was the assignee of the note.

Thermometer below Freezing and a heavy storm of cutting sleet which strikes the face like a thousand needles. Wind forty miles an hour. You say a man couldn't stand such exposure? No, he couldn't, without just the proper clothing. And there's only one outfit that can keep a man both warm and dry at such a time, and that is the "Fish Brand Slicker." They are guaranteed storm-proof, waterproof, and wind-proof. Inside one of them, you are as much out of the weather as if indoors. They are light, but warm. Being reinforced throughout, they never rip, and the buttons are wire-fastened. No railroad man who has once tried one would be without it for ten times its cost. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

The Man and the Issues.
The publication of Mr. Cleveland's letter on the coinage question has roused an interest in the subject far greater than was before felt, and has resulted in flooding the Republic with questions, all pertinent and all to be answered in time, but so numerous that many of them cannot be reached for months unless the whole paper is to be devoted to a discussion of the coinage and nothing else. Without going into details now, the Republic wishes to reiterate that it considers the reform of the tariff an issue of primary and paramount importance to the country, and that second to it and only to it is free coinage. And here we wish to state, as covering the ground embraced in many questions asked us concerning details, what as a Democratic newspaper the Republic understands free coinage to mean and why it is just and desirable.
It means a natural and uncontrolled currency. When the currency consists of or is based on gold and silver coin, coined without restriction at the mints, coinage is free and the currency is free, just as this market would be free with a tariff for revenue only.
Such a currency is the only one that is either just or stable—that can not be manipulated for contraction on the one hand or expansion on the other.
We believe that the government of the United States should coin every ounce of gold and silver presented at its mints, and that having done so it should take no other part in controlling the volume of money, though it might for convenience issue coin certificates dollar for dollar on coin deposited in the treasury.
This is free coinage as Democrats believe in it and as the Republic advocates it.
Mr. Cleveland's letter has not changed our view in the least. He is honestly and courageously wrong. He would rather be right than be president, but he would not rather be wrong than serve the Democratic party in the great reforms it has to accomplish. As the Democratic party in its platforms has not yet spoken for free coinage he is not yet bound as a Democrat to hold for free coinage, and he must not be "read out" of the party for expressing a private opinion. He must come to his party on this question, and that he may have the opportunity he must have his party support where he is right—as he is on its paramount issue of the reform of the tariff.
We have not undertaken to say that he must be the nominee of the party in 1892. At no time has the Republic made such a declaration. What we have said is that he is the only Democrat in the East who is in any way available, and that if he is thrust aside by Northeastern antagonism to tariff reform the West must see to it that no tool of the Northeastern "commune of capital" is thrust on the Democratic party.
Mr. Cleveland is honest, candid, courageous and capable of learning. The people always know where to find him, and when they call on him to do their work they know that he will sacrifice himself unhesitatingly in keeping his promises. Such a man is too valuable to the Democratic party and to the country to be thrown away recklessly. It is not a question of his using the Democratic party. He has never tried to do that. It is a question of the Democratic party using him, and they are blind and rash indeed who hasten to declare that the Democratic party can have no further use for Grover Cleveland—the man who has done such stalwart work in its service.
This does not mean that he must be the Democratic nominee. There are fifty Democrats at the very least in the Central West, and any one of whom would stand a better chance for election to the presidency in 1892 than any Democratic candidate seemed to stand at the opening of any presidential campaign since 1880.

When the convention meets it will have the issue and the men before it. Let it determine. In the meantime there must be no split in the Democratic party.—Republic.
Among the most important rivers in Europe is the Danube; in fact, it is the second river. It has a length of 1,700 miles; it and its tributaries drain a valley having an area of over 300,000 square miles. Many nations live along this river to the point where it is held by the nearly thirty case was composed of source fished at plaintiff's Black White, of Macon, Georgia, a plaintiff and R. C. part of French.

On Wednesday of last week in the senate, Mr. Ingalls, who presided, after referring to his four years service as presiding officer pro tem, and calling attention to the fact that in April last he was unanimously designated to preside during the future absences of the vice-president and the pleasure of the senate, a function not previously exercised by any member of that body during the century of its existence, said that in view of the early close of his term as senator, in order to avoid embarrassment and to afford opportunity for deliberation, he tendered his resignation as president pro tem, to take effect on the election of his successor. He made a graceful recognition of the honor conferred upon him by the senate.
Many plans are proposed for solving the Indian problem. One most important thing can be done, and no time should be lost in effecting it. Let white men on Indian reservations be reduced to the minimum as rapidly as possible. Let all offices at agencies be filled by Indians. Give them the clerkships, the traderships, the post-office, the carpenter, shoe, tailor, harness, blacksmith, barber and other shops. Let them run the saw-mill when there is one. In short let no work be given white men that can be done by Indians. This rule should be rigorously observed. Teachers in the schools and ministers of religion should also be Indians as soon as may be.

The grave and solemn manner in which Spotted Horse and the other Sioux braves at Washington have been talking about the "sad sights" at the battle of Wounded Knee last month is amusing to whoever knows the red man. Admire what qualities we may in the Indian he will always be found cold, unsympathetic, and intensely cruel. The torturing of dogs and cats and the everyday cruelties that go on at every reservation make a white visitor's gorge rise. In battle an Indian sees no cruelty, but in Washington, where the very air is saturated with politics, he suddenly becomes humane, it seems.

Under the new apportionment of representatives there will be 88 senators and 356 members of the House in the national congress—12 more senators and 21 more members of the House than under the last previous apportionment. Six new states have been added to the Union since 1880, increasing the number from 38 to 44—Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming—three of them being agricultural and three mining states.

The recent action of the Republican managers shows to the people of the country to what base use they would apply the force bill were it in force. That party has absolutely reversed the will of the voters in New Hampshire, Connecticut, Montana, and Colorado, and shaped the elections in those states—with the election machinery in their power—to suit their purposes in disregard of the will of the people.

The trust business appears to have entered a belt of troubled water after a season of easy and pleasant sailing. The secretary of one big combination is under arrest for attempting to bribe a government officer to commit a crime, and there are rumors of over issue of certificates in others. These things are what might have been expected, and other acts of a like nature may be expected in the near future.

The committee in the Missouri legislature on official salaries and fees, to whom was referred a resolution authorizing them to investigate the entire subject of reduction of salaries of state and county officials, have worked faithfully on the matter for several days and are now prepared to report that "none of the officials of this state are getting rich off their salaries."

The bill introduced by Mr. McLin, of Johnson county, making it a felony to publish in the state newspaper principally devoted to the printing of accounts of crime and immorality, was passed by the house by a unanimous vote. The bill contains an emergency clause, so that if the senate passes it it will at once become a law.
The following communication which recently appeared in the paper to which it is addressed will explain itself: "To the editor of the New York Times: Hit a bill head whenever you see it, and hit it hard. It is Cleveland or nothing, in 1892."

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY
cures the worst cases of Catarrh of the Bladder, and is sold by all Druggists.
A distinguished philanthropist said that those who go astray in youth were probably little worth saving from the first; they must have been feeble fellows—creatures made of putty and pack-trail, without steel or fire, anger or true joyfulness, in their composition; we may sympathize with their parents, but there is not much cause to go into mourning for them; for to be honest, the weak brother is the worst of mankind.
Several years ago Chamberlain & Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, commenced the manufacture of cough syrup, believing it to be the most prompt and reliable preparation yet produced for coughs, colds and croup; that the public appreciate true merit, and in time it was certain to become popular. Their most sanguine hopes have been more than realized. Over three hundred thousand bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy are now sold each year, and it is recognized as "the best made," wherever known. It will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment. For sale by W. G. Agee & Bro., druggists, Dalton, 11

WILLIE MCCORMICK, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. McCormick, of St. Joseph, had a narrow escape from death one day last week. The lad had purchased a rusty old revolver from a playmate, and going to a hardware store procured screws and nails and fixed up the weapon so that it would shoot. He also procured a quantity of cartridges which happened to be too large for the revolver. Unthoughtfully he placed one of the cartridges in the cylinder of the weapon and commenced to pound it with a hammer to get it in far enough to permit its discharge. The third or fourth blow struck the cartridge full on the head with such force as to cause its discharge. The bullet glanced along the base of the left leg and lodged in the palm of his left hand.

More strange and distinctive stories have been told about Jeremiah Simpson, the sockless seventh district Kansas "congressman," than about any other public man since Lincoln. The last one of these reflects great credit on the Kansas statesman. It is said he so disgusted by the French need on the bills of fare in the Washington hotels that he proposes to have the nuisance abated by legislative enactment. All good Democrats will be with him if he means business. It is not at all likely that he is disgusted because the French allude to his poor French. He is disgusted because, to use a Corkish, it isn't English. And he is right. Why call oysters "huîtres" or fish, "poisson"? As for more elaborate dishes, anything that is fit to be eaten can be named in English. Let us have reform.

In almost every city a class of loafers can be found who stand about the streets and growl from morning until night about hard times. They surround every farmer they can get to listen to them, and pour their bitter denunciations of everything genial into their ears. They say they have been hunting work all summer and cannot find any, when the fact is there is nothing they so dread to encounter as a job of work of any kind. Their wives at home keep the family by washing and sewing. Every man who, by hard work and economy, has saved enough to run a business of his own comes in for a share of their slime, even though he uses his capital so as to furnish employment and a living to those who have not the ability to manage for themselves. They are the material from which anarchists are made. If the city could trade them off for an equal number of well defined cases of smallpox it would be an excellent exchange. Ex.
